A Note From Our Founder

Anna Wallace

I once struggled with my weight, starting each day with determination but often resorting to unhealthy habits like the Special K diet or just going hours without food.

Evenings would often end with takeaway, excessive eating, or alcohol to cope.

Feeling lost and unhappy, I believed I was the "fat" one in my family and didn't know how to change.

After hitting rock bottom, I enrolled in University to study Food and Nutrition. This decision transformed me — I lost weight and maintained it, even after pregnancy.

I founded The Weight Loss Academy, supporting over 50,000 clients globally over 9 years.

Our WLA Approach helps to burn body fat simply and flexibly, restoring confidence and igniting sustainable fat loss.

If you're reading this, know that achieving your goals is possible, even if you've tried everything and feel like giving up. Your journey matters, and like mine, finding the right weight loss approach can change everything.

Important Tips for Getting Started

The 5-day fat loss reset meal guide can include whatever variation of the meal options you want. It's fully adjustable depending on the recipes and ingredients you like.

Pick the recipe you like most from the reset meal overview for each meal (breakfast, lunch, dinner and snack). Feel free to duplicate recipes that are easy to batch.

Feel free to swap each ingredient around. Or leave out ingredients you don't like. Season foods more if required.

Go with the flow of the recipes in the guide in terms of variety, or adjust and simplify by repeating meals more often. This will not impact results.

Meals

- Pick one breakfast for 5 days or pick and choose from the guide if you want more variety.
- If unable to have one of the lunch recipes due to being out or busy, go for a protein based salad, soup or any egg dish.
- Repeat lunches more often if that's easier (e.g. an easy batch recipe can cover multiple days).
- Always have a portion of protein in each meal. If having soup, have a piece of protein on the side such as a boiled egg or some meat / fish.

Drinks

- Aim to have only one milky coffee per day (i.e. latte / cappuccino). Tea and coffee with small amounts of milk are fine.
- Aim for 8 glasses of water per day approximately if you can (see the Drink Tips section for ideas on how to drink more water).

Snacks

- Aim for one bigger snack between lunch and dinner to manage appetite and sugar cravings. Snacking at other times of the day is fine but aim to only snack when physically hungry.

Portions

- If you feel that it is too much food for you, don't eat it all. Listen to your own body and don't eat just for the sake of eating.
- Eat until you've had enough and feel satisfied. Recipes are for 1 serving unless stated otherwise.

Note

- Don't expect perfection — just do your best.

The 5 Day Fat Loss Reset Guidelines

- ✓ Eat breakfast within 1 hour of waking (if possible)
- ✓ Ensure every breakfast has a protein element
- ✓ Include protein with every meal
- ✓ Reduce processed foods and added sugars
- ✓ Eat 3 healthy meals per day with healthy snacks in between when hungry
- ✓ Stay hydrated by drinking at least 8 glasses of water per day
- ✓ Move your body daily — even a 20 minute walk counts

if using dairy-free milk, add protein powder*

The Food Swop List

Don't like an ingredient?

Every single ingredient can easily be changed using our simple swop list. Just swap around with foods from the same groups.

The meals/recipes are flexible — leave out any ingredients you do not enjoy or replace with another alternative. Reduce or increase flavours to your own liking.

Fruits and vegetables can be changed. If you do not like carrots, swap with peppers, courgettes with peas, etc.

If you do not want chicken, swap with another meat. If you do not like fish, swap with another protein. Use vegetarian sausages if you don't eat meat.

You can leave out ingredients you do not want, add or decrease herbs and spices, taste everything to suit your preferences.

Everything can be adjusted and, as long as the adjustment is done within the right group as shown in the swop list, you can still get the best possible results.

Drink Tips

Water Tips

1. Get a pretty reusable water bottle

Keeping a water bottle handy can serve as a visual reminder to drink more water. If you see the bottle on your desk or table, you will constantly be reminded to drink more. It can also be challenging to drink enough water when travelling or on the go. Fill your water bottle before you leave home, and bring it along on your daily travels.

2. Add water to your daily routine

Make drinking water a habit by drinking at set points during the day, e.g. as soon as you get up, drink before a meal, drink while at the computer or watching TV. Sipping consistently throughout the day is another easy way to help you meet your fluid goals.

3. Make it fruity

If you dislike the flavour of water, or just need a bit of flavour to help you drink more, you have many choices. Try lemon, lime, orange, cucumber, watermelon, kiwi or strawberries — or fresh herbs like mint.

4. Eat your water

One simple way to get more water is to eat more foods that are high in water. Lettuce, celery, cucumber, watermelon and grapefruit are all great options.

You can have one milky coffee (latte or cappuccino) per day.

Multiple teas with a little milk are also fine — just make sure you're also drinking water.

Snack Tips

Snacking System

We recommend sticking to three balanced meals per day, with snacks in between but only if you're truly hungry. The key is to listen to your body and respond to your own hunger signals.

- Mid-Morning Snacks

Most people find they don't need a snack between breakfast and lunch. However, if you do feel genuinely hungry, choose a light option like a piece of fruit or raw vegetables.

- Afternoon Snacks

The gap between lunch and dinner tends to be longer, which is why many people benefit from a more substantial snack in the afternoon. We call these the "bigger" snack options. This can help you avoid the 3pm slump and reduce the temptation to reach for sugary or processed foods.

Snack Amounts — What's Right for You?

The number and size of snacks you need can vary depending on your lifestyle:

- Very active or exercise regularly? You may benefit from additional bigger snacks to fuel your energy needs.
- Less active or sedentary? You might find you need fewer snacks.

Final Tips:

- Eat when you're hungry — not out of boredom or habit.
- Pause and check in with your body before reaching for a snack.
- Aim for nourishment — every bite is a chance to fuel your body well!

Fruit and Vegetables Snack Inspiration

Apples	Asparagus	Aubergine
Banana (no more than 1 per day)	Beetroot	Blackberries
Blueberries	Bok Choy	Broccoli
Carrots	Celery	Cherries
Courgette	Cranberries (fresh)	Cucumber
Grapefruit	Grapes (1 cup)	Kelp
Kiwi	Mandarins	Mango
Melon	Mushrooms	Onions
Orange (1 large)	Pears	Peppers
Pineapple (1 cup)	Plums	Radishes
Raspberries	Spinach	Strawberries
Sugar snap peas (1 cup)	Tomatoes	Watercress

We also recommend bigger snacks. With regards to "bigger" snacks, some women may only need one per day and others more. If you exercise regularly you may need more compared to someone that is less mobile.

It is recommended to have a bigger snack between lunch and dinner — this will prevent sugar cravings and support appetite until dinner. You may require another snack in the evening. Some days you may need 2 bigger snacks and some days 1. Tune in and be flexible based on how you feel.

Why Balanced Blood Sugar Supports Fat Loss

Maintaining balanced blood sugar levels is a key part of fat loss. Fluctuations in blood sugar drive cravings, energy crashes and over-eating. Keeping blood sugar steady supports your fat loss goals and your energy at the same time.

Here's why balanced blood sugar matters:

Reduced desire for sugar

Improved mood

More control around food

Weight stabilises / weight reduction

Reduced cravings

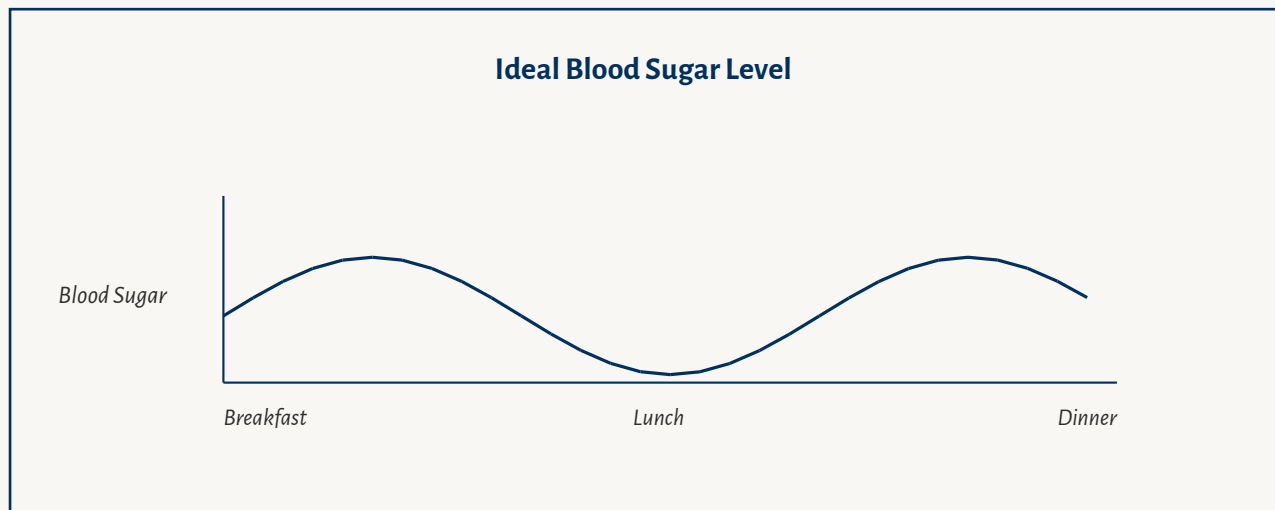

Appetite falls / stabilises

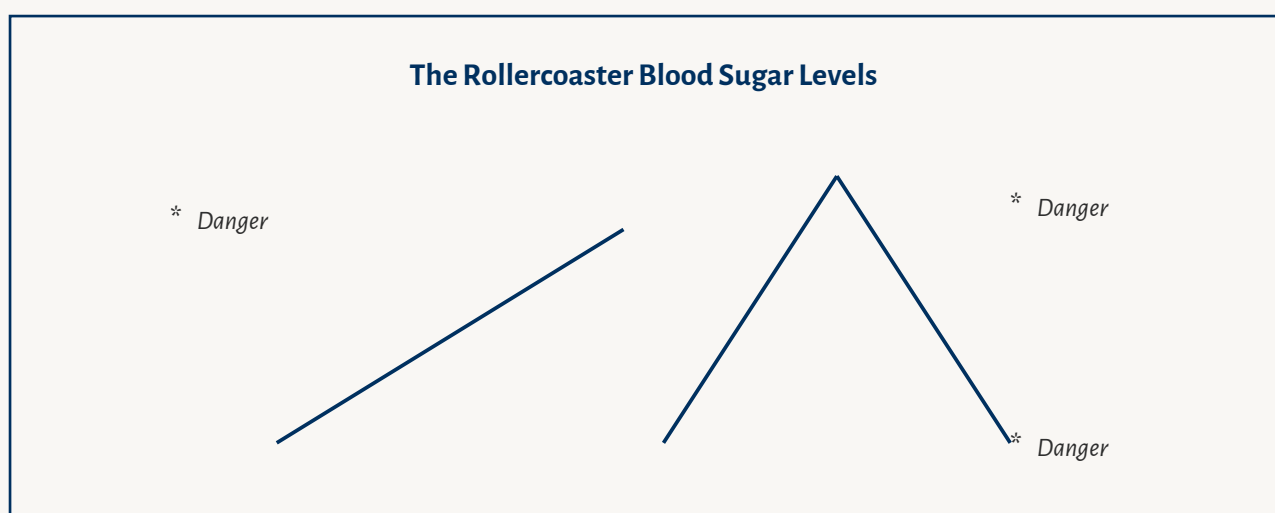

No extreme highs followed by severe plummets

Easily Kickstart Fat Loss in 5 Days

When the right amount of food is consumed at the right times, this will result in balanced blood sugar levels throughout the day (when less sugar is consumed overall). The body can handle some sugar but excessive amounts have an impact on fat loss.

- Peaks after each meal / snack (think balanced meals)
- Small peaks and troughs
- Blood sugar level dips = signal to eat

The day looks like this:

- Extreme highs
- Extreme lows
- Low mood / high mood
- Unbalanced overall
- More sugar cravings and generally eating more sugar overall

Side Note — fat loss can be extremely difficult here

Why Breakfast Is Important

When breakfast is skipped, blood sugar levels will continue to dip and it will be more likely that foods high in sugar for energy will be consumed. Having breakfast within an hour of waking will allow blood sugar and insulin levels to stabilise.

In addition, having a protein element with breakfast will help with satiety levels (feeling of fullness) and sets the body up for the day, meaning there will likely be less snacking on less nutrient-dense options throughout the day — which is exactly what supports fat loss.

- ☐ Blood sugar levels dip due to skipping breakfast
- ☐ This results in looking for something to give a quick "hit" to stop feeling shaky, hungry or tired
- ☐ High spike followed by a big hit of insulin to remove the sugar from the blood to the cells
- ☐ Extreme high followed by extreme slump
- ☐ The cycle continues

Why Snacking Is Important

Snacking is really important as it helps keep blood sugar levels steady during the day. If food is eaten at regular intervals throughout the day, having a dip in the blood sugar levels will be less likely and therefore reaching for less nutrient-dense foods for a kick of energy will not happen.

Snacking is important to bridge the gap between breakfast and lunch and then lunch and dinner. However, snacks should not be eaten just for the sake of it — snacking is supposed to tide the body over until the next meal.

- ☐ Peaks after each meal / snack (think balanced meals)
- ☐ Small peaks and troughs
- ☐ Blood sugar level dips = signal to eat

The WLA Nutrition Formula

At The WLA, we use our unique Nutrition Formula to help kickstart fat loss in as little as 5 days and support visible weight loss within a week.

This formula is built around portion control and a healthy balance of all food groups — carbohydrates, protein, and fats — rather than restriction or elimination.

The WLA Nutrition Formula focuses on building meals that are high in protein and adjusted to be low, medium, or higher in carbohydrates, depending on the meal and the individual. This structure teaches you how to create nutritionally balanced meals that support fat loss, improve health, and help reduce sugar cravings — while still being realistic and sustainable long term.

Your 5 Day Fat Loss Reset has been designed using this formula for maximum results. You don't need to calculate or overthink anything — simply follow the guide and the setup provided.

The WLA Nutrition Formula focuses on:

- Reducing carbohydrate intake (not eliminating — just adjusting amounts)
- Reducing processed foods and added sugars
- Prioritising whole, nourishing foods
- Including snacks when guided by hunger signals
