

No Cook Fat Loss Guide.

Smart, weight-conscious meals — without cooking elaborate dishes.

Losing fat doesn't always mean spending hours in the kitchen. With busy schedules, long workdays, or even just wanting to simplify meal prep, you can still make smart, weight-conscious decisions without cooking elaborate meals.

Here's your Shift & Sustain guide to no-cook fat loss strategies that focus on convenience without compromising health.

Why No-Cook Meals?

Cooking fresh meals is ideal for controlling ingredients and keeping meals nutrient-dense. However, life doesn't always allow for daily cooking. Enter no-cook solutions: quick, easy, and efficient ways to support your fat-loss goals without resorting to highly processed options.

Key Principles for No-Cook Fat Loss

1. Whole Food Focus

Choose whole, minimally processed foods that deliver nutrients with fewer additives. Avoid frozen meals with long ingredient lists and opt for single-ingredient frozen items, such as vegetables, fruits, and proteins. This will help you avoid hidden sugars, sodium, and unhealthy fats.

2. High Protein Choices

Protein is essential for fat loss as it helps keep you full and supports muscle mass. Keep frozen cooked chicken, prawns, or plant-based protein sources like Quorn on hand. Greek yoghurt, cottage cheese, and halloumi are also excellent options.

3. Prioritise Fibre-Rich Foods

Fibre helps control hunger, supports digestion, and slows the absorption of carbohydrates, keeping blood sugar levels steady. Frozen mixed vegetables, pre-washed salad greens, and canned beans are quick to assemble in meals or snacks.

4. Healthy Fats are Your Friend

Adding healthy fats keeps you satisfied longer. Avocado slices, nuts, seeds (like chia or flax), and ready-made guacamole can be incorporated into no-cook meals. Be mindful of portion sizes, as fats are calorie-dense.

5. Keep It Balanced

The key to fat loss is balancing macronutrients - protein, fat, and carbohydrates. Choose options like pre-cooked quinoa or brown rice or whole-grain wraps to accompany your proteins and veggies in a high carb meal. These options provide energy and sustain satiety.

To prepare your frozen dinner:

- Select one protein
- Select a vegetable or fruit option
- Select a carbohydrate
- Select a healthy fat

Pick Your Protein	Serve With?	Carbohydrate Element	Side
1x Piece of Breaded Fish	Serve with any frozen vegetables or salad	Not applicable as protein has a carb component	1 tbsp tzatziki, coleslaw or low sugar tomato sauce
1x Fish Cake	Serve with any frozen vegetables or salad	Not applicable as protein has a carb component
3 Chicken Goujons	Serve with any frozen vegetables or salad	Not applicable as protein has a carb component
3 Fish Goujons	Serve with any frozen vegetables or salad	Not applicable as protein has a carb component
1x Chicken Kiev	Serve with any frozen vegetables or salad	Not applicable as protein has a carb component
1/4 Quiche (with pastry)	Serve with any frozen vegetables or salad	Not applicable as protein has a carb component
1x Vegetarian Burger	Serve with any frozen vegetables or salad	Not applicable as protein has a carb component
4 Falafels	Serve with any frozen vegetables or salad	Not applicable as protein has a carb component
2 x Sausages	Serve with any frozen vegetables or salad	Add a carbohydrate from the swap list
1 x Fillet of fish (plain)	Serve with any frozen vegetables or salad	Add a carbohydrate from the swap list
1 x Fillet of chicken (plain)	Serve with any frozen vegetables or salad	Add a carbohydrate from the swap list

Note, to keep these meals simple, any frozen item that has breadcrumbs /pastry etc serve with 1/2 plate of salad or vegetables, rather than an additional carbohydrate. If the food item is plain i.e. plain chicken breast or piece of fish, feel free to add carbohydrate element from WLA swap list. One side can be added to each meal.
